Employees are reminded that minimising waste is good for the Company and for the environment and should both co-operate with the environmental initiatives and also make positive suggestions as to how we may improve what we carry out here.

Specifically, individuals are requested to:

- Take account of environmental factors and opportunities in the design and development of products and services.
- Minimise the generation of waste in all areas and consider climate change at every turn.
- Make use of the designated waste containers appropriate for recycling.
- Look for energy savings and opportunities for the use of recyclable materials.
- Act as an example to suppliers and take environmental factors into account in sourcing decisions.
